Ex-Red Spy Chambers Admits Perjury in Court

Admits He Was a Traitor and 'Lived in Sin'

New York, June 4—(AP)—The character and credibility of ex-Communist Whittaker Chambers, on whose testimony hinges the government's perjury charge against Alger Hiss, was the target of defense counsel yesterday.

Under lashing cross-examination, Chambers acknowledged that he lied under oath before the same federal grand jury that returned the perjury indictment against Hiss, former state department official.

Florid, gray-haired defense attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker also drew from Chambers an admission that he had failed to tell the whole truth before official bodies on several other occasions.

Both defense and prosecution attorneys have stated that it is principally on Chambers' word that the perjury charge against Hiss hangs.

Hiss is accused of swearing falsely when he denied Chambers' claim that he turned over government secrets to Chambers, self-described former courier for a prewar Russian spy ring.

Chambers, whose testimony has pictured Hiss as plotting with him and a Soviet agent, Col. Boris Bykov, to filch government secrets, spoke softly as he answered Stryker's questions.

He Was A Traitor

He acknowledged that, during his 14 years in the Communist party, he had been a traitor to the United States, that he scorned religion and had lived with a woman "outside the bonds of matrimony."

He denied Stryker's description of the woman as a prostitute.

Chambers said he had told the grand jury which indicted Hiss that he had no direct knowledge of Russian spy activity.

"Then you admit now that you testified falsely and committed perjury before the grand jury in this building," asked Stryker.

"That's right," Chambers replied.

The question and answer came precisely at the time set for the weekend adjournment of the trial. Stryker sat down.

Hiss, lanky, one-time high political advisor under the Roosevelt administration, glanced over at his wife, Priscilla, and smiled faintly.

Previously, Chambers has testified that he had failed to tell the whole truth when giving his story to the FBI, and the house un-

Capture One of Fourteen Desperadoes

Moundsville, W. Va., June 4—(AP)—One of 14 desperate criminals who slugged and sawed their way out of the West Virginia state penitentiary was recaptured today about six miles east of this Ohio river town.

Prison Warden Orel J. Skeen identified the recaptured man as Denis Taylor, who joined in the mass break early yesterday.

Skeen said Taylor was arrested at a country store at nearby Rosby's Rock where he had gone to buy something to eat. Taylor was serving a 15-year term for armed robbery.

The warden said Taylor offered no resistance, adding:

"One of the citizens at the store put a gun on him and held him at bay until one of the officers came and got him."

The convict was captured shortly before 9 a. m. and was returned to the Boundsville penitentiary an hour later.

The jail break early yesterday liberated prisoners who Skeen said "are the ones we least would want to have escape." Six were life termers, and all had been confined in individual cells in the most secure part of the prison.

Four of the lifers were sentenced as habitual criminals, one for armed robbery, and another for kidnapping a Wheeling policeman. None was sentenced for murder.

Three Communists on Trial Are Jailed for Contempt of Court in Noisy Session

New York, June 4—(AP)—Three of the 11 top American Communists on trial for conspiracy were in jail today, despite efforts of their attorneys to get them out.

A guard at the federal house of detention said they were allowed no visitors last night.

The three were ordered jailed yesterday after the 20-week, tension-charged trial exploded into a noisy hubbub of shouts, accusations and defiance.

The immediate cause of the outburst was the refusal of a defendant to answer a U. S. attorney's question. However, the incident followed a long series of violent courtroom clashes.

Jailing of three defendants produced sharp protests in some quarters.

Wallace Shocked

Henry Wallace calls the action "shocking" and a threat to American political liberties.

The American Labor party said that Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, in revoking bail of the three men yesterday, was guilty of "judicial tyranny and gross abuse of power."

The civil rights congress, a group called subversive by attorney general Tom Clark, termed the ruling an "attempt to completely stymie the defense." The congress planned a protest demonstration today.

Those jailed are:

John Gates, editor of the Communist Daily Worker; Gus Hall, Ohio state chairman of the party, and Henry Winston, negro organizational secretary of the party.

Wallace, head of the Progressive party, said that "one need not be a Communist or in agreement with Communist methods and objectives to be deeply shocked."

He said Attorney General Tom Clark holds that "membership in the Communist party—of itself" is punishable by prison sentence.

Bail Is Revoked

Bespectacled Judge Medina has repeatedly admonished the defendants and their attorneys to be more orderly, or face penalties.

In revoking bail of the three men yesterday, the judge also warned defense counsel that he may seek disciplinary action against them when the trial is over.

Gates was under cross-examination when the crackling exchange began.

He was asked to list the members of the Communist national veterans committee who had helped him prepare a postwar party booklet for veterans.

"These people are engaged in private industry,' he said, "I will not disclose their names because they would lose their jobs."

Judge Medina ordered the remark stricken from the record, and directed the witness to answer.

Refuses to Answer

Again Gates refused saying he did not want to degrade himself by incriminating other fellow Communists.

Brushing aside heated defense objections, the judge then held Gates guilty of contempt, and ordered him jailed for 30 days, or until he relents and answers the question.

The other 10 defendants leaped up protesting, as Gates declared, "I'll never answer."

Above the noise, Winston shouted something about "lynching," and called the trial a "monstrosity of justice."

Burial Rites Monday for Famed Giannini

San Francisco, June 4—(AP)—Final rites of the Catholic church will be administered Monday to Amadeo Peter "A. P." Giannini, who died early yesterday in San Mateo.

The founder and chairman of the vast Bank of America was 79.

Archbishop John J. Mitty will preside at a solemn requiem mass in St. Mary's Cathedral at 10 a.m.

Entombment will follow in the family crypt at Holy Cross cemetery. His body will lie next to that of his wife.

Chadwick Man Charged with Housebreaking

Robert Traum, 38, a farmer living near Chadwick, was arrested at Nelson at 2:45 a. m. today, by Sheriff Gilbert P. Finch.

Traum was picked up at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bartholomew, after creating a general disturbance at their home. According to Sheriff Finch, Traum ripped the front screen door off the hinges, broke the front door and gave the back screen and inner door the same treatment.

The sheriff indicated that Traum gave the elderly couple who are in their 70's a pretty bad scare after breaking into their home. No physical violence had been used on the couple, Sheriff Finch said, but it is believed that the prompt arrival of Finch and Redabaugh, prevented this action by Traum.

He is charged with "disturbing the peace," and may be faced with other charges, State's Attorney Morey C. Pires, informed the Telegraph.

Arraignment of Traum, and further action the charges are expected in county court later today.

Farm Plat Book for County Will Use Air Surveys

Work starts this week on a new Lee County Farm Plat Book. The Telegraph plans to publish a completely new book using for the first time the U. S. Governmental aerial views. In the past the various township farm plats have been based on hand surveys which through the years have not always been found to be accurate. For the first time through these air survey maps the new farm plats will show location of each homestead in the county, and the exact location of schools and churches.

Detail County Map

In addition to a detailed map for each township the book will also include a map of Lee County. Total acreage will show on each farm plot together with the owners name. This information will be obtained at the Court House and then each completed map checked by the Lee County Farm Bureau to insure an accurate and up-to-date finished book.

Records Should Be Changed

Where there has been a change of ownership prompt changing of the Court House records is requested. Every effort will be made to learn of recent changes and most of them will be made. It will be of considerable help however and insure the correct listing of property names if new owners or owners who have never had reason to change the county records through the years will do so at this time.

Strive Hard to Come to Agreements

Paris, June 4—(AP)—Russia and the west both were behind a curtain today, continuing efforts in secret session to find a way of co-existence in Berlin.

Behind a news blackout, the diplomats of the big four foreign ministers conference face more than restoration of harmony in the German capital. Both sides believe—with apparent sincerity—that a way of life can be worked out.

With their experts — all pledged to secrecy—the foreign ministers will begin today's talks in the pink palace at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. CDT).

After a secret session yesterday the only encouraging sign was the announcement the ministers would meet again today.

Neither Russia nor the western powers had rejected their rival plans for making Berlin a single city.

The big barrier between the two sides was understood to be the question of whether any one power can be permitted to veto acts of the city government or elections of city government officials.

Four Divorce Decrees Given in Court Here

Judge George C. Dixon granted four divorce decrees in circuit court Friday afternoon.

Marie J. Tarter, Dixon, was granted a divorce from Dennis Tarter, Rt. 1, Dixon, on the grounds of extreme and repeated cruelty.

The plaintiff was awarded care, custody and education of their three children, Dorothy Marie, 15, Dennis Jr., 13, and Donna Jean, 11. It was ruled that $15 a week for support of the children be paid Mrs. Tarter, by the defendant. He must also pay court costs and the plaintiff's attorney fees. Title to the real estate, household goods and equipment owned by the defendant was given Mrs. Tarter.

Doris Wedekind, Dixon, secured a divorce from Leroy Wedekind, Dixon, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. He is employed by Kellen Motor Sales, 782 Galena Ave. Alimoney was waived. The plaintiff received permission to use her maiden name Doris Farster. There are no children.

Extreme cruelty was the grounds on which Anna M. Gerdes, Dixon, obtained a divorce from Harold E. Gerdes, a real estate broker, 703 Galena Ave. They have no children.

Alimony was waived. The plaintiff was directed to pay court costs. They were married on Feb. 5, 1949 at Bloomington, Ill.

Dolores Cover, Dixon, gained a divorce from John Cover, 1805 Ninth St., on the grounds of extreme cruelty. She waived alimony. He was recently employed by Sinow and Wienman, 114 River St.

The decree for divorce stipulates that $10 a week support money be paid by the defendant for the minor child, Carol Ann. Care, custody, and education of Carol Ann, was granted the plaintiff. The Covers were married on January 14, 1946, in Dixon, and lived together until April 10, 1949.

Mrs. Murray, Sister Return from Coast

Mrs. Warren G. Murray and her sister, Miss Clifford Mac Farlan returned from California last night. Mrs. Murray spent the last three weeks in California visiting her sister.

Bracken Retained in 'Civil Rights' Case

Attorney Robert Bracken has been retained at the last minute to represent Frank Keller, 1622 First St., in the "civil Rights" case set for 10:00 a.m. Tuesday, June 7, in county court.

Keller who operates Wilson's Cafe, 1622 First St., is charged with "denying the civil rights with equal accommodations in his restaurant," to a quartet of colored people.

The incident occurred early in April. Mrs. Esther Love, Dixon, and her husband, Robert Love, Milwaukee, accompanied by another couple were refused service in the restaurant. Keller has been at liberty under $500 cash bond.

Playing Cards for Disabled Veterans Wanted by Hospital

The Dixon Evening Telegraph again calls to the attention of its readers the necessity for donating used or new playing cards for the disabled veterans at the Vaughn hospital.

The campaign has been most successful but there remains a large number of these veterans who find their greatest enjoyment from playing cards. Many Dixon business and professional people as well as organizations have responded by donating several decks of either new or used cards.

Any who desire to contribute to this worthy cause are requested to leave their donations at the Telegraph office.

Look, Soldier! Hal Boyle Is 'Going Back' for All of Us

By HAL BOYLE

New York, June 4—(AP)—A letter to any veteran:

Did you ever want to go back, soldier?

Do you wonder sometimes what it is like now in those foreign places where you spilled your youth, and perhaps some blood, in the years of war and waste?

Well, soldier, I'm going back. I've got a two-week furlough to rendezvous with what's gone by. Where did you lose your youth? Tell me, and I'll look for it. Maybe I lost mine there, too, in the same crowded hour. I sure mislaid it somewhere.

Backtracking the war is too big a job for any one person. It was a long war in a wide world, and no man saw it all. But danger, excitement and boredom usually taste the same in different places. All foxholes got so they looked alike.

The foxholes I'm going back to are in Europe. Were you there, too, soldier?

Can I help peel off some of the past for you? What shall I tell the girls in Picaddilly Circus? Is there someone you want me to look up for you in the cemetery that looks down on Omaha beach? They say there isn't a red stain on the sands there now, and once there were so many. And a man lying on every stain.

It's June again in the Normandy hedgerows, soldier. Five years don't make much difference to hedgerows. But how the world has changed for the men who fired across them at each other in 1944!

How odd it will be to see live cows grazing in the fields outside St. Lo. Remember, soldier, how it seemed like every cow you saw was dead? And they lay in the shell-pitted pastures with their stiff legs stuck in the air like bloated toy rubber balloons.

The road into St. Lo winds past a calvados factory. It's probably repaired by now. I'll toast you in raw calvados, brother, and you remember that stuff. One drink, one day off your life.

And then, of course, comes Paris, the glory foxhole of all time. The day we went in there the town went crazy, and no Yank could spend a dollar. Bet you can now, hey soldier?

There will be lots of stops along the way. Rheims and Spa and Luxembourg. And others with names a man couldn't pronounce—and now doesn't want to.

One I have in mind is the Hurtgen Forest. Then we're going on to Frankfurt and Berlin.

Well, soldier, I guess we all have changed as much as the battlefields. There isn't much use in trying to back back to anything in life, but everybody keeps right on trying. Maybe in the next two weeks I'll see a few old ghosts of something we used to know.

And if I do, I'll say hello—and tell them you wish them well.

Leave It to the Army to Get a Guy All Fouled Up

Washington, June 4—(AP)—Rep. Allen (R-Ill) said today he is asking army chief of staff Omar Bradley for "an immediate decision" on the status of Virgil A. Gustafson, thrice discharged soldier of Rockford and Loves Park, Ill.

Allen wrote Gen. Bradley after receiving a letter from Gustafson's attorney, Thomas Simmonds of Rockford.

Simmons wrote that Gustafson had been detained at Fort Sheridan, Ill., since July 27, 1948, on desertion and fraud charges of which he was acquitted by a fifth army court martial April 15.

Allen told a reporter he has pieced together Gustafson's service history from letters from his wife, his attorney and from the Fort Sheridan special troops division commander.

As Allen outlined it, here is Gustafson's record:

Gustafson was honorably discharged from the wartime army in Florida in October, 1945, for the purpose of re-enlisting in the regular army. After a 30-day furlough he reported for duty at Fort Sheridan, Ill. There he was told that his papers had been lost and he was asked to remain at his Rockford home until they were found.

Discharged Again

He was ordered to Fort Sheridan July 15, 1946. Two weeks later he was discharged.

A week later, Gustafson enlisted in the airforce. Six months later he was honorably discharged at his own request because his wife was expecting their first baby.

Gustafson was arrested in Rockford in July, 1948. Mrs. Gustafson asked Rep. Allen's help.

Army Red Tape

Fort Sheridan authorities told Allen that Gustafson was being retained in the army while they investigated alleged violations of the article of war in connection with Gustafson's 1946 discharge.

After Gustafson's acquittal by an army court martial April 15, he was given a 10-day furlough and Fort Sheridan asked the army department for instructions. The department ordered Gustafson's second discharge cancelled. Gustafson returned to Fort Sheridan, where he is serving as a fireman.

Attorney Simmonds wrote Allen that Mrs Gustafson needs her husband to support their family. She expects a second baby shortly.

'American Whisky' May Be Recognized by U. S. Action

Washington, June 4—(AP)—"American" whisky may be added to the Scotch-Irish-Canadian roster of distilled liquors.

The internal revenue bureau's alcohol tax unit today scheduled a public hearing for July 11 on proposals to change its regulations so that whisky so labelled would be legal. It isn't now.

The amendments, if adopted, presumably will put some more down pressure on prices by further expanding the supply of "aged" whisky available.

The chief proposed change would do that by allowing time spent in any oak container, whether used or new, to be counted as part of a whisky's "age."

Under present regulations in this country—but nowhere else in the world—only time in new, charred oak containers can legally be counted as "age."

There would be certain qualifications attached to the proposed "age" amendments:

For whisky to be called "bourbon" or "rye," it would have to be aged at least six months in new, charred kegs. To be called "straight whisky," it would have to spend at least 24 months in new kegs.

But additional time in used kegs could be counted in the age statement too. Thus, straight whisky with 24 months in a new barrel and 24 more in a used barrel would be "four years old."

Clearance for U. S. distillers to produce something they could call "American" whisky would come from elimination of a regulation requiring liquor stored in used containers to be labeled simply as whisky "distilled from rye (or bourbon, wheat, malt or rye malt) mash." A present, this whisky may not be described as "aged."

Eliminating that requirement, officials said, would make possible U. S. production of a light-bodied" whisky comparable to the Canadian whisky produced under regulations that permit time in used containers to be counted in age statements.

The liquor industry is divided over whether the current "age" requirements should be modified as proposed.

HOW TO BUY BUILD ☆ FINANCE MODERNIZE ☆ FURNISH IMPROVE ☆ YOUR HOME

Design Engineer Favors Colorful Type of House

Window draperies decorate the outside of a house as well as the inside.

Few people think of draperies as an element in exterior planning. One person who does is Howard Ketcham, a color and design engineer. As a color consultant for industry, he has selected colors for a host of things, ranging from groups of houses to service stations, automobiles, airliners and railroad coaches.

Americans would like to use more colors on the exteriors of their houses, Mr. Ketcham says. Among the reasons they don't, he explains, is that they don't have enough confidence in their own innate taste and don't know exactly how to go about color planning.

Visible From Outside

That's where draperies come in. They're hung on the inside of a house, but they're visible from the outside. If the drapery colors aren't chosen in relation to the exterior color plan, they might clash noticeably and mar the appearance of an otherwise beautiful home.

The same precautions should be taken with curtains, window shades and venetian blinds. In a survey of 3,000 homemakers, Mr. Ketcham found that more than one of every three women wants venetian blinds which match the exterior colors of her home.

"The existence of other opportunities for peasing use of color on the exterior should be realized," the color engineer says. "Among these are outdoor furniture, window sash, the roof, trim, doorsteps, awnings, flower boxes and even the flowers themselves. Colored concrete for walks and terraces is a recent development."

He says the roof, a large and prominent area, offers one of the greatest possibilities for wise use of color to enhance the attractiveness of a home. To show that the home owner has a wide variety from which to choose, he calls attention to the many solid and blended colors available in asphalt shingles, the roofing material which covers most American homes anyway.

Overall Effect Wanted

"All the exterior colors of a house should be considered as a group, matching, blending or contrasting with each other to achieve an harmonious, overall effect," Mr. Ketcham says.

Color also can be used to advantage on the sidewalls, the engineer believes. He says that in some cases it might be desirable to color the sidewalls completely, but in other situations it might be preferable to color only parts of the walls, thus emphasizing the more attractive architectural features while making the less attractive ones relatively inconspicuous.

Color can create visual illusions, Mr. Ketcham says. For example, a band of light color under the eaves of a house with dark siding draws the eye upward and makes the house seem higher. Similarly, a light-colored asphalt shingle roof makes a house seem taller and a dark roof makes it appear lower.

Mr. Ketcham, who believes in planning colors on the basis of surveys of consumer taste, urges home owners to be more confident about their personal color judgments.

"A house should express the personality of the family occupying it and the members of the family should do what they like best because it's their house and they have a right to be happy with the way it looks," he says.

Home Buyers to Benefit by Better Supply of Money

Supply of mortgage money for building and purchase of homes will be greater during 1949 than ever before and home-buyers will be able to obtain better terms as a result, it was indicated today after analysis of figures which show that funds deposited in savings institutions are at an all-time high and steadily increasing.

First quarter reports from the savings bank in New York State show that the $177,000,000 deposited in those institutions is 22% ahead of the first three months of 1948. A similar trend is reported for the nation as a whole. For example, a total of $888,000,000 poured into the savings and loan associations of the country during the first two months of 1949, a gain of 18% over last year.

Replenishment of Funds

It is from these two types of savings institutions that most of the money comes for home financing, although life insurance companies are now placing an increasing percentage of their funds into home mortgages.

Adding brightness to the picture is the fact that it is now possible for lenders to replenish their funds by selling to the government up to 50% of their mortgages, and it is estimated that approximately $150,000,000 will be poured back into the mortgage market in this manner in the next year.

Lenders say home-buyers will benefit by this increased money supply by obtaining longer term mortgages with smaller down payments and continued low interest rates because of the competition among lenders to put idle funds to work.

Make Repairs This Summer

Summer is the best time of year for home repair and remodeling as well as new construction. The dry, warm weather generally enables work to be done more conveniently than at any other season.

Because a tight roof is the first fundamental of sound shelter, reroofing and roof repair rank high in the volume of work done to keep America's homes in sound condition. The roof is the largest single area on the exterior of a house and is fully exposed to all the onslaughts of nature.

The most widely used roofing material, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce, is asphalt roofing. Last year, asphalt roofing accounted for 83 percent of all the roofing material required in the United States.

Asphalt roofing is liked by builders and architects for its versatility. There is at least one type to suit every sort of structure. Asphalt shingles are available in a wide assortment of colors, textures and patterns.

The fire-resistance of asphalt shingles is a desirable quality. They will not be kindled into flame by chimney sparks or fire brands carried by the wind.

Ease of application of asphalt roofing is a significant feature, although it does not mean that the necessity for proper application is lessened. Proper application of any roofing is essential if the material is to give the full service of which it is capable.

Fire Destroys Big Barn at Stateville

Joliet, Ill., June 4—(AP) — A two and a half story barn on the Stateville prison farm was destroyed by fire which started from a bolt of lightning early today.

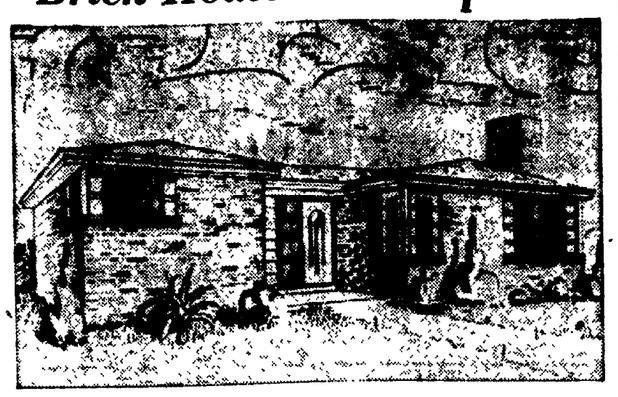

Warden Joseph E. Ragen said 10,000 bushels of oats and 5,000 bushels of shelled corn were in the frame building but that a considerable amount of the grain probably could be salvaged for feeding purposes. He said he was unable to estimate total damage but that cost of material to replace the building with convict labor would be about $5,000.

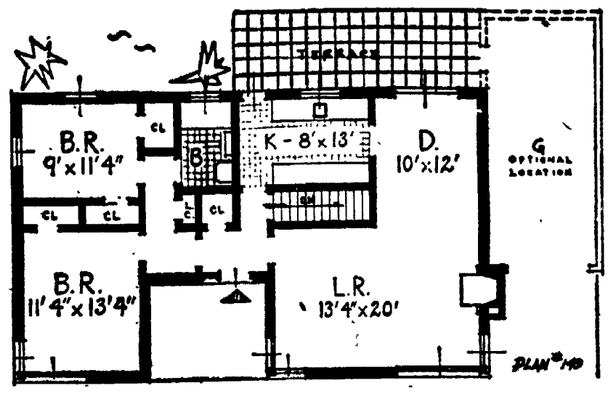

The Joliet fire department joined the prison fire department in fighting the blaze.

SLOW REACTION

The star Nova Herculis exploded ceuturies ago, but the light of the explosion did not reach the earth until 1934. At Christmas time of that year, the star became one of the brightest in the sky for a few days.

Brick Houses Are Popular

A brick house continues to be the favorite of thousands of American families. This example was designed by J. Richard Ross, 714 Mill Street, Pittsburgh 21, as his Plan No. 149.

An advantageous feature of the planning is the ease of accessibility from one part of the house to another and from either of the entrances to any of the rooms. It is not necessary to walk through any room to get from either the front door or the back door to the living room, the bedrooms, the bath or the kitchen.

Room dimensions are larger than ordinary for a moderate-priced house. The corner windows and picture windows create a feeling of additional spaciousness.

Sidewalls are of brick veneer accented by touches of white clapboards and glass block near the front entrance. The designer recommends fire-resistant asphalt roof shingles in a harmonizing color. Deep green or blue-black shingles are suggested. Trim would be white.

Preliminary cost estimates could be based on 1,200 square feet of floor space and 16,000 cubic foot content.

(Detailed plans and specifications are available from J. Richard Ross, 714 Mill Street, Pittsburgh 21, Pa., by referring to Plan No. 149.)

What's Happening?

It's not all surgical dressings and layettes when American Red Cross production and supply volunteers bend over their sewing machines and cloth-cutters. In addition to these and other "authorized" production items, the Red Cross is frequently asked to supply more imaginative articles.

When a nurse on an orthopedic ward remarked that she "wished some one would dream up pajamas to slide on over arm and leg casts," her statement was relayed to a nearby chapter's production and supply service. Volunteers there came up with the solution—pajamas with legs and sleeves that buttoned down the sides. Grateful nurses—and patients—report that they slip on over casts like a dream.

Tie-on heel-less slippers were developed simultaneously in two different parts of the country to meet different special needs. In one hospital they solved the problem of control for patients whose injury or illness made it difficult for them to walk. In another, they answered the need for a foot covering which neuro-psychiatric patients would not iabsentmindedly walk out of and leave behind.

Other unusual items produced include crutch covers, wheel chair cushions, hearing aid and radio headphone holders, stethoscope cases, Christmas stockings, and special knitted caps for brain-surgery cases.

STRANGER STILL—

Every request of an invalid veteran is important in the eyes of the Red Cross—even if it's for a Zebra fish on the verge of motherhood!

A Gray Lady serving the Oakland (Calif.) VA Hospital was almost stumped when a patient expressed a desire for just that sort of addition to his ward's aquarium. But she searched the area's pet shops and, to her surprise and relief, found exactly what the young veteran has specified.

Hardly had the zebra fish been installed in the ward than she produced a family—and quite a family, too.

Bright Future

Texas Farmers Store Wheat in School

Wheat is being dumped into the school room near Vernon, Texas as storage space becomes non-existant. The crop of fresh harvested wheat is causing considerable agitation among farmers of Texas and Oklahoma who claim elevator operators are profiting by refusing to store the grain. Prices are falling. The situation is expected to get worse as the harvest moves north through Kansas. — (NEA Telephoto).

Want to Go Prospecting for Uranium? It Will Pay Plenty

By FRANK E. CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

Washington, June 4—(AP)—You've got to have more than a pick and shovel and a hopeful heart to go prospecting for uranium—the "gold dust" of the atomic age.

The Atomic Energy commission has come out with a booklet giving some of the low-down on how to search for uranium ore—the precious stuff that's used to make bombs as well as peacetime products of atomic energy.

The whole idea of issuing the booklet, says the commission, is to stimulate more prospecting for uranium.

But—

You've got to tone up on a little geology.

You've got to be ahandy-man with a geiger counter, an instrument for detecting radioactivity.

And, it would be a big help, too, if you'd load into your modern covered wagon such gear as ultra-violet lamps, photographic plates or film, a metal key, an instrument called a "scintilliscope" and another called an "electroscope."

Aids In Spotting

All of these are aids in spotting the pay dirt.

The commission's 123-page booklet goes into some detail on how to detect the stuff and how to identify it when you find it, but it gives only very general information on the big question: where?

That's something the AEC boys would like to know themselves.

The commission has even set up a kind of jackpot to encourage modern 49-ers to get in there and dig. This is a bonus of $10,000 "for the discovery of a new deposit and the production therefrom of the first 20 short tons of uranium ore assaying 20 per cent or more uranium oxide."

Books Cost 30 Cents

You can buy the booklet for 30 cents from the government printing office. Those three dimes may put you in the chips, because the AEC promises to pay a minimum price of $3.50 a pound for uranium oxide.

Here's a little on the detection tests described in case you want to start laying in equipment:

A Geiger counter gives audible "clicks" when there's radioactive material nearby. But you've got to get some fairly big-league clicking before you can be certain the trail is hot. Cosmic rays in the atmosphere can activate the instrument, too, and these may fool you. (Remember: You can't sell cosmic rays.)

Here Is Test

If you find some rocks you think might contain uranium, take them into a dark room. Put a metal key on some photographic film and then lay the rock on top of the key. If you get an image of the key on the developed film, you may be well on your way to paying off the mortgage.

Another test: If your mineral glows under ultra-violet light, you may have made a strike.

Open to prospectors for uranium and thorium (another radioactive material) are the "vacant and unappropriated public lands" in the states of Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, and the territory of Alaska. So are certain national monuments and one national park—Mt. McKinley.

You can even dig on your neighbor's land, if you get his permission.

A Revoltin' Development

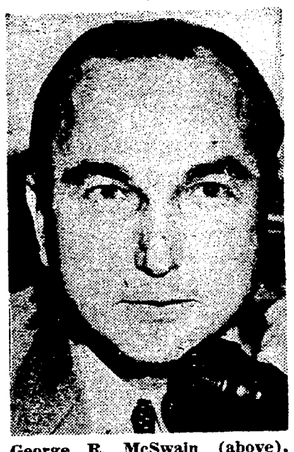

Here he is, girls—Mr. America of 1949—otherwise known as Jack Delinger, of Oakland, Calif. The 22-year-old muscle man won the title over 40 contestants in the annual contest in Cleveland, O. Delinger weighs 198 pounds, stands 5 feet 8 inches and hopes to go on the stage. Right now, he's classified as an unemployed shipping clerk.

In Contempt

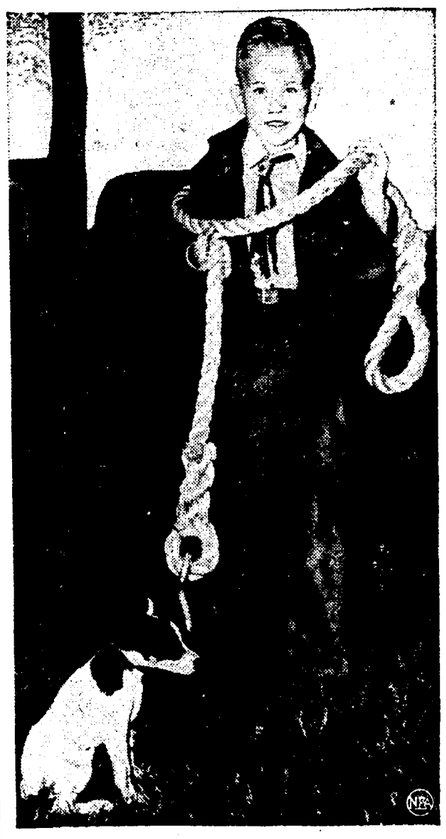

George R. McSwain (above), agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Chicago, was threatened with punishment for contempt of court by Judge John P. Barnes. Threat came after McCwain refused to produce files subpoenaed for the habeas corpus hearing of Roger Touhy. Touhy is trying to have a kidnaping conviction and sentence revoked on grounds that evidence in his trial was "faked."

Beheading was formerly considered an honorable form of execution.

SUNNYSIDE SONNY—

Phillipe, Waldorf-Astoria chef, awards 14-year-old Ray Resseque the first prize trophy and title of "Egg King" after the boy won the annual cooking contest of the Madison Square Boys Club in New York. Ray was tops among 12 finalists with his skillet skill and copped the honors with fried eggs, his specialty. He fixes them any way, but prefers them sunnyside up.

SAFETY FIRST—

Arriving for the opening of a new dog food plant in Hampshire, Ill., 8-year-old Butch Hermann makes sure "Mickie" won't stage a one-dog raid on the firm's products. He has the tiny pooch tethered to a one and one-half inch marine hawser.

Martha Johnson Wed in DeKalb

The First Lutheran church in DeKalb was the scene of a spring wedding Friday evening, May 20, at 8 o'clock, at which time Miss Martha Frances Johnson of Sycamore daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony S. Johnson of Cortland became the bride of Arthur William Larson of Whiting, Ind., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Larson of rural Sycamore. In the presence of a host of friends and relatives, Pastor Erland Borg read the double ring ceremony. Lighted Cathedraldral candelabra and a profusion of bridal wreath and snowballs created a formal background for the exchanging of the marriage vows.

As the guests were assembling, Mrs. Erland Borg, organist played a medley of lovely nuptial selections and also accompanied Mrs. Ruth Benson Smith as she sang.

To the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March the attractive bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She was radiant in her classic princess wedding gown of white satin with Chantleau lace trim and designed with long fitted sleeves, sweet-heart neckline and flowing train. Her fingertip veil of Chantleau lace was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and mock orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of yellow and white roses. A strand of pearls, which was the gift of the groom, was her only adornment.

Miss Violet Johnson of DeKalb close friend of the bride, served as maid of honor, wearing a formal gown of yellow moulline over satin and mitts to correspond. Mrs. Paul Fant of Rockford, sister of the groom was bride's maid and Miss Gertrude Johnson of Big Rock the bride's niece acted as junior bride's maid both being formally attired in blue moulline over satin. All three attendants carried colonial bouquets of yellow carnations and yellow daisies and bands of sweet peas and yellow daisies adorned their hair. Pearls were their only adronment.

Miss Barbara Larson of Indianapolis, Ind., niece of the groom, was flower girl and was charming in her white taffeta formal frock and headdress of daisies. She carried a white basket of petals which she scattered in the path of the bride. Tony and Sammy Schaumleffel twin nephews of the bride, from Monmouth, served as ring bearers. They were white satin suits. They carried the rings on white satin pillows.

Vernie Larson of Sycamore attended his brother as best man and the ushers were Arnold Griffith brother-in-law of the bride and Verner Johnson, the groom's brother.

The bride's mother selected a navy lace dress for the wedding and the groom's mother was attired in black. Their accessories were white and corsages of pink and white carnations complemented their gowns.

Reception Follows

A reception followed the ceremony in the parlors of the church at which time the guests were received by the bride and groom. Bouquets of spring blossoms were used as the decorations. Joe Ericsson of Chicago, cousin of the bride was toastmaster. The invocation was given by Pastor C. G. H. Ahnquist of Sycamore and Miss Gertrude Johnson and Mrs. Ruth Benson Smith favored respectively with vocal numbers. A poem, composed by Miss Laura Jacobson of Monmouth, was read by Mrs. Arnold Griffith, the bride's sister. The program closed with fitting remarks by Pastor Erland Borg.

A large decorated wedding cake enhanced the setting of the bridal table.

Miss Doris Wellander was in charge of the guest book and the gift table was attended by the bride's two sisters, Mrs. Arnold Griffith and Mrs. Laurence Schaumleffel.

Now At Home

When leaving on their wedding trip, the new Mrs. Larson was wearing a gray suit with green accessories and a corsage of pink carnations and sweet peas. They are at home in East Chicago, Ind.

The bride is a graduate of the Lee Center high school and later attended the Dixon Business college as bookkeeper and cashier at McAllister's store in Sycamore.

The groom was graduated from high school in Nebraska. He later attended the State University of Nebraska and obtained his engineering degrees at the University of Illinois and the Ohio State university. During World War II he served as an engineer with the Navy Department. He now holds the position of staff engineer at the Standard Oil company (Indiana) Refinery in Whiting, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowden Jesse and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gehrt of Amboy attended the wedding.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Since nothing is settled until it is settled right, no matter how unlimited power a man may have, unless he exercises it fairly and justly his actions will return to plague him.—Frank A. Vanderlip.

Agreement on German Unity Seems All But Hopeless; Is No Surprise

Barring the unforeseen, an agreement at Paris between Russia and the West on German unity and peace terms is apparently impossible.

Russia has rejected the western powers' plan for a Germany united under the Bonn constitution adopted by the western zones of the country.

France, Britain and the United States have turned down the Soviet Union's proposal for an all-German state council to handle economic and "government" matters subject to veto by a revived four-power control agency. One nation could dictate a veto.

There is no surprise in these developments. In her self-imposed isolation, Russia sometimes misjudges the likely western response to her moves. But she must have had no illusion that the West would accept German unity of the sort she might propose. The plan she actually offered at Paris was not even taken seriously as a program for unity.

By the same token, the western nations must have had no genuine hope that Russia would accept the Bonn constitution as a basis for cementing all Germany. It would mean un-Russian freedoms in the eastern zone, plus a merciless spotlight on Soviet activities there.

If these things are so, why did Russia seek the Paris conference?

Western spokesmen believe the continuing sessions will show her true goals to be much more limited than the basic German issues. They think she wants better East-West economic arrangements in Germany. The Soviet zone suffered badly from the western counter-blockade; it needs western trade.

Other relatively minor gains may come out of the conference. And Russia is of course not blind to its value as a propaganda springboard.

We have learned from the discussions thus far that the lifting of the Berlin blockade marked no drastic shift in Russia's policy or attitude toward the west. Foreign Minister Vishinsky may smile and clown, but his words are no more conciliatory than were Molotov's at London 18 months ago.

To reach an accord among nations, as among individuals, you must first have a will to agree on the part of all. There is no sign whatsoever that Russia desires agreement on fundamentals in Germany.

Even if she did, there could be little confidence of major progress under preent circumstances. For this is a clash between two systems of thought—communistic and democratic. The two seem as repellent to each other as oil and water.

Life with Father

The U. S. Children's Bureau is out with new advice to expectant fathers. Its program sounds downright militant.

Gone are the days when a father could discharge his responsibilities just by looking properly worried as he paced the hospital floor at the baby's birth.

The bureau wants the would-be dad to go to class to learn how to make a dependable tri-corner and handle baby powder deftly. It wants him to busy himself putting together play pens and the like. It suggests he pitch in and help with the housework in the trying days. And it thinks he should provide Mother with a mental uplift.

Much more advice like this and father will need a play pen for his own use.

The Relative Importance of Great Issues

PETER EDSON'S Washington News Notebook

Behind the Scenes at the Nation's Capitol—Timely Little Stories About Some 'Big' People

Washington—(NEA)—Former Undersecretary of State Will Clayton is back in Washington, wondering about taking another government job. Clayton had to retire from government service because the strain on him was too great. He was advised to take it easier. He went back to his old Anderson-Clayton office in Texas, but found that in his absence the company had learned to run without him. He had nothing to do. Finding private business too dull, he came back to where all the excitement is.

VA Is Worried

Veterans Administration officials are worried lest congressmen confuse vet hospital canteens with Army post exchange stores, currently under investigation on Capitol Hill. VA officials point out that their canteens are operated strictly for the benefit of their hospital patients. Visitors may buy cigarettes for their own convenience, but that's about the limit. VA canteens won't take special orders, even for veterans. That's one of the worst abuses of Army PX stores and it leads to most criticism from private merchants. Patrons of the service canteens can order expensive items like air conditioning units, and get them at considerable discount, even though they are not carried as regular PX stock.

Internal Combustion

American Farm Bureau Federation has an inside political fight on its hands. Allan B. Kline, Iowa Republican farmer and banker, was elected A. F. B. F. president in the expectation that Northern Republicans would be in control in Washington for the next few years. Return of the Truman administration and a Democratic Congress has resulted in a movement to have a Southern Democrat head up the Farm Bureau again. Big and blustery Ed O'Neal, now retired to his cotton plantation, was president of the Farm Bureau all through the Roosevelt administration. Kline got pretty rough treatment recently from the House Agriculture Committee, after his testimony against the Brannan farm plan. That's another issue on which officers and small farmer members of the Farm Bureau are split.

May Try Brannan Plan

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan's farm plan may not be as dead as generally believed. House Agriculture Committee is considering a bill to try out the Brannan plan next year on four perishables—eggs, milk, pork and potatoes. This would be an extension of the Department of Agriculture's original proposal to try out the Brannan plan on pork. Including potatoes would definitely put the Department of Agriculture on the spot, as keeping up potato price levels is already the most costly support operation in the present government program.

"On Reliable Authority"

"Democratic Digest" now quotes Earl Bunting of National Association of Manufacturers as an authority on the effectiveness of some New Deal legislation. A 1947 speech of Bunting's, predicting that there would be no serious depression, has been dug up by the Democrats to prove their point. It quotes the N. A. M. executive as having approved such things as Securities and Exchange Commission, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Social Security and the economic stabilization program in general. Here are sample quotes: "Stocks are not rocketing past the moon as they did in 1929 . . . Our banks are as liquid today as they were frozen in 1929 . . . We have $7,000,000,000 in unemployment funds to cushion against and halt any plunge like 1929 . . . We are armed with better weapons which were not available in 1929."

Still No Trouble

Big question insiders were asking when strong man Louis Johnson became Secretary of Defense was whether he could muzzle Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington. Under Forrestal, Symington took the case for his glamorous Air Force direct to Congress, the press and the public. So far, there has been no indication that Symington would go over Johnson's head to get what he wants, and the two are on good terms.

No Joking Matter

Citizens Committee for Reorganization of the Government plans an all-out campaign to educate the man in the street on the importance of this subject. A recent poll showed that only a small percentage of the people had ever heard of ex-President Hoover's Commission on Reorganization, or knew what it had recommended to save the government several billions of dollars a year. To get the idea across, Citizens Committee is even considering trying to plant gags about it with radio comedians and in the comic strips.

Hickenlooper on Atomic Weapons

In view of Iowa Republican Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper's charges of "mismanagement" against Atomic Energy Commission Chairman David E. Lilienthal, this United Press dispatch of six months ago is revealing:

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 6—(UP)—The United States is "strongly situated" in the development of atomic weapons, Senator Hickenlooper of Iowa, outgoing chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, said today. "We have not been asleep at the switch in our program of developing atomic weapons," he added.

Sales Campaign

Democratic Party's mid-western conference at Des Moines, June 12-14, will be principally an effort to sell the Brannan farm program to political leaders. Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington is preparing a special booklet to help explain and sell the idea. Conference is so political that Secretary Brannan says he's going to pay his own way to Des Moines. Even if Congress does not act on the plan this year, it therefore seems destined to become a political issue in 1950 campaign.

Initiative Needed

Businessmen who complain about lack of investment capital have been given an eye-opener by Scott Paper Co., of Camden, N. J. This company has just registered with S. E. C. a $2,000,000 preferred stock issue bearing only 3.4 per cent interest—almost a record low. The moral is that there are plenty of savings and there is plenty of risk capital available if business and investment houses would get busy and start selling, instead of waiting for customers to come to them.

Vitamin and Minerals Are Retained in Frozen Foods

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

All signs point towards an enormous expansion in the use of frozen foods over the next few years. Many people wonder whether these foods have lost any of their nutritious value or vitamins because they have been frozen or stored for a long time. Fortunately, there have been several studies made of this subject and the answers are highly encouraging.

The blanching and cooling to which vegetables must be subjected before quick freezing often causes a loss of vitamin C and some of the other vitamins and minerals. The freezing itself, however, does not result in any loss in these substances nor does storage.

Frozen foods do not require as much cooking as the fresh products. Hence when the cooking stage is reached there is less loss of vitamins and nutrients. When these processes are added together, it has been found that frozen vegetables when ready to serve after a year's storage have about as much vitamin C as the same products cooked within 72 hours after picking.

SAFE STORAGE

Properly prepared frozen and stored fruits, vegetables and meats do not develop any poisonous products even after long storage. Apparently fish stored for several years may become indigestible or unpalatable, but even this is not dangerous.

Reports indicate that freezing causes a decrease in the number of germs, but it does not kill them all. Frozen foods should not be held for more than a short time above 15 degrees, because germs can grow at or about this temperature. Taste and appearance are better, and deterioration and germ growth avoided, at storage temperatures of about zero to 10 degrees.

Provided frozen foods are prepared properly and quick freezing, storage and cooking are done properly, they will supply the same important nutritious elements that fresh foods do.

QUESTION: I was bitten by my parrot and had quite an infection for about a week. Could the after effects of this bite be serious?

ANSWER: There is a disease spread by parrots, but this is usually through the air rather than by bite. If the immediate infection cleared up, there is probably not much danger of serious late effects.

Grandma's Ice-Pick Slaying 'Justified'

Decatur, Ill., June 4—(AP)—A verdict of justifiable homicide has been returned by a coroner's jury in connection with a grandmother's icepick slaying of a 28-year-old man.

The victim was James Phelps, a negro. He was slain Thursday by Mrs. Julia Haney, 51, who told police Phelps attacked her 12-year-old grandson, Willie Tucker.

Mrs. Haney, a negro, has been in custody since the stabbing on a murder warrant. State's Attorney Ivan J. Hutchens said he will seek dismissal of the warrant and Mrs. Haney's release from jail.

Bridge players will tell you that the game of bridge is not based on luck, but on science. However, Donald Richards, the young baritone, believes that luck does play a part in life.

He got his start in singing because an agency called him up one day, thinking he was somebody else. To this day Donald does not know who they thought he was—but they told him they had him booked for six weeks at the Hollywood Beach hotel in Florida for $175. It was not until he was on the train that he learned it was $175 a week.

Upon his arrival at the hotel, he handed the orchestra leader four songs. "Where are your orchestrations?" he was asked. Donald looked bewildered, but luck stayed with him. "Go to bed, Donald," said the orchestra leader. "If anyone wants you, you have laryngitis tonight." By working all night, the director had music prepared for Donald the next day.

He has gone a long way since then. He was the original Woody Mahoney in "Finian's Rainbow," the male lead in "Along Fifth Avenue," and now he is on a personal tour. Donald predicts that "Younger Than Springtime," a recording he made recently, will be one of the big hits of the year.

Some players blame bad luck for losing a contract, but ability will win in most cases. In today's hand, if declarer tries to establish the spade suit first, he can easily be defeated. But if he starts the diamond suit right away, he probably will make a spade, two hearts, two diamonds and four clubs.

Of course, with double-dummy defense, West could jump in with the ace of diamonds, shift to a spade, and when East wins the spade trick, he can lead hearts. But that is rather difficult defense even when you are looking at all of the cards, isn't it?

Radio Victor in Fight for Free Speech

Washington, June 4—(AP)—U. S. radio stations have won their eight-year fight for the right to express their own opinions on public issues over the air.

It is something they have been restrained from doing since 1941, when the Federal Communications commission—which holds life and death power over radio stations through control of their operating licenses—said that broadcasting stations could not "editorialize" or "advocate" anything.

This meant that while stations were expected to make facilities available for all persons or parties of all points of view, they could not express their own opinions on public issues.

The commission amended this policy late yesterday. It said that a station of either the listening or looking (television) variety, could speak out, in its own name, for a political candidate, or a political party, or in any controversy—provided it does not prevent the airing of views opposed to its own.

Social Situations

SITUATION: At a large party your husband is off in a corner talking to an attractive woman.

WRONG WAY: Keep glancing in their direction, or join them.

RIGHT WAY: Join a group and try to have a good time yourself. (The wife who shows her jealousy in such a situation is likely to embarrass her hostess, her friends, and perhaps her husband.)

Good cleaner for washable walls and woodwork. Here's the formula: add 1 cup ammonia, ½ cup vinegar and ¼ cup baking soda to one gallon of water.

MILITARY COSTS $100 EACH, HOOVER FINDS

Washington—Studies by the Hoover commission show that the nation's military establishment cost Americans about $100 a person last year.

Pleasing Women Not Easy But This Girl Clerk Does

After at least six women said to me: "If you ever go into such-and-such a shop to buy a dress be sure to ask for Miss Brown," I was curious.

Just what did this one particular clerk have that pleased her customers so much they were constantly sending her new ones? I decided to find out—and I did.

One. She takes her time with a customer, apparently is as interested as the customer in finding the most becoming dress in the store, not just something that would do to make a sale.

Two. She listens when the customer tells her what she wants, so that she doesn't waste her own or the customer's time bringing out colors or styles the customer has already explained she isn't interested in.

Three. She doesn't insult the customer's taste by arguing that the customer is making a mistake in turning down a dress. Instead she builds the customer up by agreeing that what she doesn't like isn't quite right for her.

She Uses Psychological Approach

Four. She indirectly points out a customer's good points rather than her faults. Many a saleswoman has lost a sale by saying: "This dress is so slenderizing" when she could have said: "This shade is perfect with your coloring."

Five. She asks the customer's name and remembers it.

Six. She seems really interested in what the customer wants from the dress she is buying—whether she wants a good, practical dress, something for an important party, something to please her husband who may have definite opinions about women's clothes, or whatever it may be.

Seven. She is as courteous and considerate to one customer as to another. Some saleswomen will fall all over themselves being nice to a woman who is wearing expensive clothes and act as though they are doing another woman, not as well dressed, a favor by waiting on her.

That's all I could find out about this supersaleswoman who keeps her customers coming back and sending their friends to her.

So it must be true—and I'm sure it is—that a lot of saleswomen slip up on those small courtesies that mean so much to a woman shopper.

★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Hollywood—(NEA)—Howard Hughes will cash in on the Ingrid Bergman-Roberto Rossellini headlines. He's looking for a new title for their Italian film, "After the Storm," with Stromboli in it somewhere. I asked him if he'd seen the picture's rushes and what he thought of them.

"Arty," he said, "but good."

* * *

The nation's newest craze, square dancing, had a quick flurry of popularity in the film colony but now the lads and lassies are back to the rhumba. Square dancing requires four couples for a square and, as one of Hollywoodsman put it:

"I couldn't find four couples who didn't hate each other."

* * *

Jane Wyman's role in "Stage Fright" sounds almost as tricky as "Johnny Belinda." She plays a very bad actress who attends the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art to become a good actress. It takes a very good actress to play the role of a very bad actress.

"And," says director Alfred Hitchcock, "I'll have to be a very good director to have Jane come off as a very bad actress."

SHORT WAIT

Gary Cooper, in a hurry at Ciro's telling a headwaiter: "A table near a waiter, please." Coop and his family take off in three weeks for Aspen, Colo., where they'll spend the summer at their new lodge. The bedrooms are only 8x10. "Just enough room," says Coop, "to stretch my legs."

* * *

Joan Bennett overheard it at the Brown Derby: "Now we got to endings to the story, but the beginning and the middle have fallen out."

* * *

Members of the Argentine polo team invited Ann Sothern to be a guest at their country home this summer. Ann said she'd like to go but didn't speak the language. Cesar Romero spoke up: "Honey, you don't have to talk. All you have to do is shake your blonde hair at 'em."

* * *

Jack Carson's description of a romantic couple at a Hollywood night spot: "They were sitting high by sigh."

* * *

Gene Autry's horse, Champion, just auditioned for a new airshow, "Adventures of Champion, the Wonder Horse." . . . Comics Gene McCarthy and Tommy Farwell will screen test at M-G-M for "Tahiti." . . . C. B. DeMille is pounding the publicity drums for Angela Lansbury's work in "Samson and Delilah." . . . Veloz and Yolanda will do a "Mr. and Mrs." TV show for Hal Roach.

BRAVING BRAVES

Now it's Jimmy Stewart who will be braver than Errol Flynn. Script of "Arrow," the western he'll do this summer, has him walking unarmed into a camp of hostile Indians and performing a long list of other daring feats. He'll play an Indian scout.

* * *

Diana Lynn is ready to accept Douglas Sirk's offer to go to Vienna to star in "Two Hearts in Three-Quarter Time."

* * *

Bob Taylor wanted to work out both himself and his new horse, Buck, for his western role in "Ambush." Joel McCrea needed a cowhand to help herd cattle at his Ventura ranch. Result: Joel got the cowhand, Taylor is limping. Buck feels fine.

* * *

Maybe it's just coincidence, but Walter Wanger's last eight films all featured fires. Remember "Joan of Arc," "Canyon Passage," "Tulsa," "Tap Roots," "Smash Up," "The Lost Moment," "Secret Beyond the Door" and now "Reign of Terror"? Could the man have arson on his mind?

Q's and A's

Q—What is unique about the flight of the hummingbird?

A—It is the only bird that can fly straight backwards. This it does when it is withdrawing its long beak from a flower. This ability also aids it in dodging an enemy. This bird can also fly straight up or down and sideways.

* * *

Q—Why is the Latin language preferred in medical terms?

A—Latin is used in medicine because it is an old language, unchangeable and the most universal.

* * *

Q—Was the 18th Amendment vetoed by President Wilson?

A—This Amendment became a law through passage of both Houses of Congress by a two-thirds vote, and ratification by three-fourths of the legislatures of the states. An amendment is not submitted to the president. The Volstead Act, an enforcement act, was vetoed by President Wilson and passed over his veto.

* * *

—Does the United States Constitution provide for the rights of women?

A—Our Constitution makes no provision for rights on the basis of sex.

* * *

Q—What acquisition of territory almost doubled the size of the United States?

A—The Louisiana Purchase. The bargain was concluded and the treaty signed April 30, 1803.

Mrs. Wald Is in News

The clipping that follows was taken from an exchange paper and concerns a former Dixonite. Mrs. Wald is the daughter of Hubert A. Bahen who farmed for a good party of his life around Dixon and a granddaughter of Jarvis Leake.

A really active organization, the Women's Real Estate Association of Chicago, counts among its membership Mrs. Marian Wald, owner and operator of the Madison Agency, 1647 Madison.

Mrs. Wald, representative of the women real estate brokers of Chicago, is out to prove there is something to this emancipation of women after all. She competes quite successfully with experienced brokers of the opposite sex on their home grounds. Furthermore, these women are well-informed on state and federal laws regarding real estate and are pretty well acquainted with basic economics—enough so they can spot the trends. They have to be—for before they can be brokers they must pass a very difficult examination.

Mrs. Wald holds an optimistic point of view on the current housing situation. "I believe," she told The Herald, "that we in the real estate business will witness a great upsurge of activity in the present market.

"Reason for this," she continued," is the return of a free market in both buying and renting. Construction is beginning to relieve the pressure on apartments and smaller rental units. Prices in new homes and older units have greatly leveled off from the 1946 peak."

Now the wartime congestion has abated somewhat, Mrs. Wald explained, people have something of a free choice in where they will live. While the demand for housing is still great, there is improvement, particularly in the construction of apartment units, it is her opinion.

The Bahens operated the Pine Tree inn and moved from Dixon to LaSalle county in 1930. Mr. Bahen went into the insurance brokerage in Ottawa in 1933.

Marian married George Wald in 1937 who was in the wholesale bakery business. He has been hospitalized for the past four and a half years and in 1916 she sold the business known as the Emil-American Doughnut company, 1647 West Madison street, Chicago It was then that she opened a real estate and insurance office of which her father is a partner.

Mrs. Wald has two small sons, Jonathan, seven and Barnaby, five. She graduated from the Dixon high school with the class of 1926. Mrs. Wald has also recently been named president of the St. Paul Refromed Episcopal Day school, 200 South Winchester, Chicago.

Miss Prindaville Honored in Amboy

Miss Agnes Prindaville was guest of honor at a dinner party recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kirkby MacKinnon, in Amboy, and sponsored by the faculty of Central Grade school. A dinner was enjoyed at 6:30 at prettily-appointed tables, with centerpieces of blue iris, pink peonies and white tapers in low crystal bowls. Mrs. Harold Hanson designed the place cards, which were decorated with miniature bouquets of real garden flowers. The dinner was followed by a social hour, after which "50" was played. Mrs. Helen Howe held high score, Henry Walters, low, and Miss Prindaville received the guest prize. Supt. Reinboth, in behalf of the faculty, presented Miss Prindaville a gift. The honoree expressed her thanks to the group and paid a high tribute to Mr. Reinboth, as a superintendent, for his cooperation, understanding and patience with his teachers.

Miss Prindaville is retiring from the faculty of Central school, having been a teacher of the second grade for five years.

My dear Mr. Miller:

As we review the success of the 1949 Red Cross Fund Campaign, we are impressed by the remarkable community teamwork and the high degree of public confidence which made it possible.

The spirit of the American Red Cross lies in its opportunity for personal service. The millions of volunteers who worked to raise this fund, as well as the millions who oversubscribed it, represent the strength of this great organization.

You know the deep satisfaction of having provided the financial foundation for another year of effective Red Cross service. On behalf of the American National Red Cross, I hope you may find it possible to express our congratulations and gratitude to all who contributed to your achievement.

Ice Box Is Death Trap

Walnut Ridge, Ark., June 4—(AP)—A wooden ice box became a death trap for three young children yesterday.

Mrs. Ed Chastain, mother of two of the victims, found the youngsters when she returned home to prepare supper. They had been left to play while she chopped cotton in a nearby field.

Sheriff Joe Spades said the children were wedged tightly together in a small compartment of the refrigerator. The door was tightly fastened from the outside. No ice was in the box but food was in the compartments

A preliminary autopsy showed the children died of suffocation, the sheriff reported

Sgt. Wyatt L. Patrick of the state police criminal investigation division said officers are trying to determine whether the children locked themselves inside the four-foot wooden box.

"We don't know how this happened," Patrick said, "but there are a lot of angles." He did not elaborate.

Geese always fly at about their top speed but ducks, when pressed will increase their speed by one-third.

Coast Guard Rushes to Aid Sinking Ship

Miami, Fla., June 4—(AP)—Coast guard cutters and commercial tugs were to renew their efforts today to save a disabled oil tanker adrift in heavy seas off the northeast Florida coast.

The 10,803-ton St. Claire oil company's tanker wallowed in swells about 100 miles east northeast of Jacksonville with a crew of 42 men aboard.

The coast guard cutter Blackhawk radioed coast guard headquarters here last night that a tow line parted and the flagship Sinco desired no further towing attempts during the night.

The flagship Sinco, of the Sinclair Oil cmopany's tanker fleet, had 15 feet of water in her engine room. A broken casing let the sea pour in.

Capt. J. H. Tibbetts, master of the stricken vessel, said his crew was "very calm" but added "it is questionable how long we can stay afloat."

Espionage in Uranium Hunt Is Suggested

Washington, June 4—(AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) saw "the possibility of espionage" today in the Atomic Energy commission's loss of four grams of uranium 235, but Senator McMahon (D-Conn) questioned that.

McMahon heads the senate-house atomic energy committee, which is in the midst of an intensive inquiry into the management of the atomic agency under Chairman David E. Lilienthal.

Hickenlooper Insists

Hickenlooper, the top committee Republican who instigated the probe, insisted that spy work must be considered as a possible factor as long as atomic material still is missing. Of the ounce of enriched uranium originally lost, all but one eighth has been recovered.

"That's 4,000 times the amount of material involved in the Canadian spy case," Hickenlooper said. "Therefore, the possibility of espionage cannot be discounted."

(The Canadian case involved Dr. Allan Nunn May, a British scientist sentenced to 10 years imprisonment by a British court for giving one thousandth of a gram of fissionable material to Soviet agents in Canada.)

But McMahon retorted that the FBI said it found no evidence of spying in the disappearance of the U-235 from the Argonne atomic laboratory at the University of Chicago.

Dderge Waste

He added that laboratory waste still is being dredged at the Oak Ridge plant in an effort to turn up the four grams in the same way the other seven-eighths of an ounce were found.

The Connecticut Senator commented that these tests will "take a few days longer" than expected at first. "When the evidence is in, that will be the time to draw conclusions," he said.

But Hickenlooper indicated that more will be heard of the missing uranium during the investigation which grew out of his charges that Lilienthal is guilty of "incredible mismanagement" of the atomic commission.

The Iowa senator may resume questioning Lilienthal Monday.

$130,000 Will Found Invalid

Decatur, Ill., June 4—(AP)—A Macon county circuit jury held a will disposing of a $130,000 estate invalid last night.

The verdict annulled a provision in the document directing that $123,000 be given to the Masonic Lodge of Macon, Ill., south of here. It also ruled out purported requests of $1,000 each to the Gailey Eye clinic and the Mennonite hospital at Bloomington, Ill.

The suit to void the purported will of the late Ida M. Higgins of Decatur was brough by five cousins who would have received one dollar apiece.

The jury deliberated seven hours at the close of a nine-day trial in which 30 witnesses testified. The five plaintiffs charged that Mrs. Higgins was not of sound mind on July 20, 1942 when the will was made in the office of E. S. Parks, justice of the peace. A handwriting expert also testified that the signature was not authentic.

Those who contested the will are Jennie Higgins, Maplewood, Mo.; Scott Higgins, Janesville, O.; Luke Higgins, Corfu, N. Y.; William Schuyler, Dixon, Ill., and Nellie Black, St. Louis, Mo.

If no other valid will is found, they may divide the estate under Illinois inheritance law provisions.

Eastern Roads Ask Increases

Washington, June 4—(AP)—Eastern railroads have asked for another boost in passenger fares.

The 60-odd lines late yesterday applied to the Interstate Commerce commission for a 12½ per cent advance—the third pasenger fare increase they have asked since the war.

Whether the western and southern railroads will follow suit on the request, as they did the two previous times was not immediately clear.

The railroads operating east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers said they needed higher passenger fares because of continuing deficits coupled with recent and protective wage increases.

They said they had a record deficit of $252,177,000 from passenger operations in 1948.

The proposed increases would boost basic coach fares from 3 cents to 3.375 cents per mile and sleeping and parlor cars fares from 4 to 4.5 cents.

The petition is subject to the regular ICC hearing procedure which may require many weeks to complete.

Berlin Strikers Make New Offers

Berlin, June 4—(AP)—West Berlin rail strikers offered new terms today for settlement of a two-week walkout which halted all train traffic.

The strikers proposed to the Russian-sponsored rail management that the railroad divide itself into east and west sections like everything else in Berlin. Under the plan the west section would do business with the striking anti-Communist union and the east section with the non-striking Communist union.

There was no immediate indication whether the idea would be considered favorable by the Soviet-controlled railway.

American officials said today that despite the rail strike, western Berliners have greater supplies of food and coal than at any time since 1945.

Milk Prices During May Took Small Drop

Chicago, June 4—(AP)—The government today announced class prices for milk delivered during May in the Chicago milk marketing area.

The prices announced by the federal milk market administrator are $3.351 per hundredweight for class one; $3.151 for class two, and $2.849 for class three and four. The May class one price is 21.9 cents per hundredweight less than in April. Class two dropped 11.9 cents, while class three and four prices are two-tenths of a cent less.

The June class one and two prices were set at $3.349 and $3.149, respectively.

Class one milk is that used for fluid consumption; class two is milk used for cream, ice cream and cottage cheese; class three is used in the manufacture of evaporated and condensed milk products; and class four is used in making butter and cheese.

Sets Fire to Lewis' Home; Little Damage

Alexandria, Va., June 4—(AP)—Someone tried to set fire to John L. Lewis' home here yesterday but he didn't have much success.

An unidentified man called the Washington Post—just across the Potomac river—and said he'd set fire to the home of the United Mine Worker's chief. Then he hung up.

Police found that newspapers had been stuffed under a rug and set afire, but the rug had put the fire out.

Lewis is in Bluefield, W. Va., negotiating a new contract with southern coal operators.

Truman Names Panel on Atomic Strikes

Washington, June 4—(AP)—President Truman today completed organization of the special three-man labor relations panel authorized to settle disputes at atomic energy plants.

It already had a job cut out for it with a strike authorized at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

To serve with Chairman William H. Davis of New York, Mr. Truman appointed Dr. Edwin E. Witte, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin and a former member of the war labor board, and Aaron Horvitz, New York lawyer and labor relations consultant.

Ex-GI to Give Up Citizenship To Be a German

Frankfurt, Germany, June 4—(AP)—Daniel McCarthy, the American youth who wants to be a German, was set free today to see what it's like living here penniless and without a ration card.

His determination to give up American citizenship was unshaken by trans-Atlantic telephone pleas from his mother in New Hyde Park, Long Island, N. Y., and the reasoning of U. S. military authorities here.

The American military government decided the 22-year-old ex-GI could have the run of the country without bail. He was ordered to appear June 13 for trial on charges of entering Germany illegally.

The U. S. District Attorney, William F. Johnson (of St. Louis, Mo.), who has tried to dissuade McCarthy from dropping his American birthright, recommended waiving the $500 bail previously asked for the youngster's release.

McCarthy smiled as the judge let him go.

"I still intend to give up my American citizenship as soon as possible," he said.

Last night Johnson put out $36 of his own money to connect McCarthy by telephone with his mother on Long Island. The youngster was unmoved by his mother's protests. "It's a step I feel necessary and advisable to take,' he told her.

To reporters here McCarthy said: "I fell in love with Germany when I spent 20 months here as a soldier, and I want to live here."

McCarthy now will get a taste of what it's like living as a German before he can renounce his U. S. citizenship. Without money or a food ration card, he prepared to move into the home of a German friend.

Doctor Takes Notes

Dr. Carl Binger, a fellow of the New York academy of medicine and a member of the Cornell medical school faculty, watched Chambers intently during his testimony, taking lengthy notes.

A discussion between defense and prosecution attorneys had indicated earlier that Binger's presence in the courtroom was with the consent of Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman. However, his identity was not disclosed in court.

It was not disclosed whether he would be called as a witness. His services were obtained by defense counsel.

An exchange between Stryker and Chambers dealt with the latter's one-time job as a writer for the Daily Worker. Chambers said he re-wrote New York Times stories for the Communist paper.

"In other words stealing?" asked Stryker.

After a government objection to the question, Stryker asked if Chambers thought it was "moral and ethical to take news from the Times" and use it in the Worker.

Drew $30,000 A Year

"I had to do the same thing on Time magazine," replied Chambers, who drew $30,000 a year as a senior director of Time before exposing his Communist past.

"I've had a high regard for Time magazine," Stryker resumed. "You're not telling us that Time magazine would do the same thing as the Daily Worker."

"It's a matter of rewrite," replied Chambers.

Later, Bernard Barnes, assistant to the president of Time, made this comment:

"We use every legitimate source of information that we can. Time is a member of the Associated Press, has editorial offices in 24 cities in the United States and abroad, over 180 correspondents and string men, plus 48 researchers, all of them gathering and verifying news."

LIONS TENNIS TOURNEY PAIRINGS ANNOUNCED

Scouts Beat Path to Door of N. J. Youth

New York, June 4—(AP)—That path you can see leading to Hackensack, N. J., was worn by major league scouts going to watch Stan Pitula pitch for Hackensack high school . . . Stan just won ten games this season, making it 16 straight for two years, but seven were shutouts and two were no-hitters . . . Three errors marred those no-hit games, one seven and one nine innings, but he didn't walk a man either . . . Stan also missed a perfect game against Ridgewood when the first man scratched a single and he retired the next 21 . . . For the season, Pitula's record shows 18 hits, 12 walks, 143 strikeouts and four runs, all unearned, in 72 innings. He also is the best hitter on the team . . . Anybody got a high school star who can beat that?

This dispute probably will have to go to Happy Chandler for a ruling, though it is now being debated in the Boston SSuburban Municipal softball league . . . Seems the Somerville, Mass., firemen's team was to meet Malden at 10 a. m. one day this spring . . . At 8:14 a fire alarm was sounded. At 8:23 there was another and at 10:45 the multiple alarm sign flashed . . . Naturally the fire laddies didn't show up at the ball field. The umpire waited a half hour, then ordered the game forfeited to Malden . . . League officials, on a close vote, upheld the ump, but the fire chief and the mayor of Somerville are protesting that the game should be rescheduled.

Aaron Robinson, the Tigers' catcher, still gets a chuckle out of this one although it happened when he was with the White Sox last season . . . The Sox were playing the Athletics and two were out and runners were on second and third. When the count reached 3-2 on Batter Taft Wright, the catcher, Buddy Rosar, went to talk to the pitcher then took a place off to one side as if to make it an intentional pass . . . Wright stood there, completely relaxed, waiting to be walked when the pitcher fired one right down the middle and Rosar jumped behind the plate to catch it . . . Says Robinson: "Wright wouldn't talk to Rosar the rest of the season and I'll bet he's still sore, though they're both on the same team this year."

Buckeyes Smash Purdue's Hopes in Big 10 Race

Chicago, June 4—(AP)—A four-way tie for the Big Ten baseball championship appeared likely today as Purdue, blowing its chances of copping the pennant outright, tangles at Columbus with Ohio State in the season's final conference game.

By sweeping the two-game series with the Buckeyes, Purdue could have won the crown. In the opener yesterday, Ohio State uncorked a 13-1 victory behind Pete Perini's four-hitter while his mates hammered out 18 hits.

A Purdue win today would leave the Boilermakers sharing the flag with Indiana, Iowa and Michigan, each with 8-4 records. Another Purdue defeat would result in a three-way share of the pennant.

The best Ohio State can do is finish sixth with a 6-6 mark.

The Dixon Moose club, slapped down 13-0 by the VFW in their opening game Wednesday night, presented a revamped lineup last night as they edged out Nelson, 7-6, in Dixon Softball league play on the Airport diamond.

In the opener, Lindquists, behind the five-hit pitching of Lyle (Flash) Fordham, scored 11 runs in the sixth inning to come from behind a 5-2 deficit and whip Franklin Grove, 13-5.

* * *

The Moose win was accomplished on some good relief chucking by Harvey Van Ooten, who supplanted George Myers on the hill when the latter's arm became sore. Harvey rode in on a five-run Moose blast in the second, despite a Nelson four-run rally in the sixth which tied the score 6-6. The winning Moose tally came in the lower half of the sixth.

* * *

Nelson's inexperienced club did possess an experienced chucker, Eddie Poore, Rock Falls. Poore labored nicely although his mates did contribute seven errors to his downfall. He allowed but five hits and whiffed nine. Van Oosten got eight via strike-outs.

* * *

Lindquists ressurrected "Old Man" Fordham from the semi-retired list, and Lyle came through nobly. He granted five hits and himself slapped out two doubles for four runs in the hilarious sixth. Maronde, on the hill for Franklin got by until the sixth when he was relieved by Fritz. Wildness caused Maronde's downfall.

COUGHLIN'S CORNER

By CLIFF

IT MAY BE A LITTLE early to be talking about basketball but at Mt. Morris where the Kable Kolts reign supreme, basketball is a year-round topic.

* * * *

FORREST KABLE, general manager of the Kolts told us yesterday that the Kolts have definitely turned down a bid to enter the U. S. Industrial league, which has as one of its components the Tulsa Oilers. Forrest was hesitant about making that jump into big-time caging so he deferred the matter at this time.

* * * *

BUT LOOK, PLEASE, at who the Kolts are going to tackle next season. None other than the Tulsa Oilers, right in the Kolts backyard! General Manager Kable said that all was arranged but the date.

* * * *

ALREADY DEFINITELY set are games with the freshman teams from DePaul and Loyola universities. There's more bigtime basketball in the offing, too, Forrest hints.

* * * *

THIS IS STRICTLY indefinite, but don't be too surprised if Dixon's own Johnny Loftus shows up in Kolt uniform next winter. Johnny, as you know, is completing his college career at Notre Dame and perhaps will join the Kable organization. The Kolts have already signed Ed Carlson of the Rockford Moose just as a means of breaking into the higher-bracket basketball next fall.

THE SPORTS WRITERS of the North Central conference are scheduled to meet late this summer to see what they can do about better coverage of conference athletics.

* * * *

IT'S BEEN A struggle in the past to collect all the conference doings since the schools are wide-spread. But, so help us, the sports editors are going to get their heads together and see what they can work out. There's a lot of other things we're going to try to get on the agenda also.

HERE'S A CHANCE to bolster your bowling team next winter. Lyle (Flash) Fordham and Johnny Lange are looking for spots on Wednesday night, since their Classic league team, Myers Royal Blue, is withdrawing from the loop. Both are top-notchers.

WHEN MANAGER JETER'S Nelson team played the Moose last night it was the first time under lights for many on his ball club. With a pitcher like Eddie Poore, Rock Falls, a former chucker for the Sterling Moose, this team can move places if bolstered in the right spots. At the present its worst enemy is inexperience.

They Give a Party for Jim Thorpe, But the Once-Great Indian Athlete's a Lonely Guy

Los Angeles, June 4—(AP)—The party was in his honor, but the famous old Indian seemed to be the loneliest guy in the place.

The venerable Redskin was Jim Thorpe, and he was making his bow in a new role—ambassador without portfolio, greeter and manager of a downtown cocktail salon.

Thorpe's long time admirer from the days when both played rugged professional football around Akron and Canton, O., Stephen (Suey) Welch, owns the Oasis—appropriately called the Sports Club—and it was Welch who did something few ever do for Jim Thorpe.

He gave him a job.

* * *

Said Jim, a man noted for limited use of words, "I can use it."

Thorpe, now 61—he says—has made more benefit appearances than Bob Hope and almost as many as Georgie Jessel. Tireless chairmen always seek out Jim Thorpe to grace their functions.

Welch, nationally known as the manager of such fighters as Gorilla Jones, Kayo Christener and many others before he went into the theatrical game a few years ago, doesn't pay off with honors.

His place was crammed with sports figures to greet Jim. There was a brief flurry of talk, and Jim answered a few questions.

* * *

They were the same ones he's been answering for lo! all the years since he gained legendary fame. Fame as a running, kicking terror in football with the Carlisle Indians under old Pop Warner; fame for exploits in baseball, some on the hilarious side.

And most of all the fame he gained as he strode as a conquering giant through the Olympic games at Stockholm—and into the tragic aftermath of that brilliant performance.

* * *

You know the story. Jim was "convicted" of playing baseball for a few dollars around Rocky Mount, N. C., in 1909-10. He was labeled a pro. He was stripped of all his honors and medalg won in the decathlon and pentathlon as the hero of the 1912 Olympics.

Presently the spirit of the party dwindled. Jim sat alone in a corner. The parade past his table had ended.

Then was when he told of his dearest dream. His last dream, it seems.

His life story, the story of a great athlete named Jim Thorpe, has been fled up in the Hollywood film factories for, he said, 17 years.

He wishes that story would be filmed. The movie and the money it should bring to Jim would mean a lot to Thorpe. His story and its reward, he said, is about all he has to leave as a heritage for his four sons.

Seven Marks Fall in 10th Compton Meet

Compton, Calif., June 4—(AP)—Seven meet records were entered in the books of the 10th annual Compton Invitational Relays today, along with one blooper and two mishaps.

The blooper was charged to Lloyd La Beach in the highly publicized 100-meter dash. For the second straight year, La Beach was disqualified for twice jumping the gun.

The mishaps were suffered by two relay teams of the University of Southern California. The record-breaking Trojan 880 spring relay team was disqualified when Anchorman Mel Patton took off too fast and ran beyond the prescribed zone in receiving the baton from Norm Stocks. Compton college won the relay in 1 minute 25.4 seconds.

In the close four-man mile relay, Stocks, in the anchor position, took the baton and promptly crashed into an iron pole located on the border of the track. He recovered and finished the race but trailed third to Occidental college.

* * *

Outstanding performer was Craig Dixon of UCLA, who set meet records in winning the 110-meter high and 200 meter low hurdles—the first in 13.9 seconds (13.8 for 110 yards), the fastest time in the nation this season, and the 200-meter jumps in 22.8.

Herb McKenley posted a blistering meet record in taking the 400-meter run in 46.2. Occidental's Bill Parker was second, George Guida of Villanova third and Ohio State's Mal Whitfield a poor fourth after getting boxed in during the early running.

Whitfield, the Olympic 800-meter champion, won this event in 1 minute 51.8 seconds, with Bill Parnell, Washington State, second. Bob Chambers, USC, expected to offer a duel with Whitfield, coasted in third.

* * *

Fortune Gordien, the Minnesota strongman competing for San Francisco's Olympic club, threw the discus 179 feet, 3 inches, a new mark; and other meet records were fashioned by Martin Biles, his teammate, with a javelin throw of 223 feet, 7 inches; a shotput of 54 feet, 10 inches by Moose Thompson of the Los Angeles A. C. and his teammate, Bob McMillen, in the two-mile run timed at 9 minutes 16.3 seconds.

* * *

Little Jerry Thompson, ex-Texas U. distance runner, won the mile in 4 minutes 14 seconds, with Jack Hutchins, Oregon, second, and John Twomey, Illinois A. C., third.

George Stanich, UCLA, won the high jump at 6 feet 5.

Bob Richards, Illinois A.C., won the pole vault at 14 feet 6.

WINNER TAKE ALL—Having won the Augusta Masters and the PGA Championship, the latter for the second time, Sam Snead takes his best shot at the U. S. Open at the Medinah, Ill., Country Club, June 9-11. It's the only major championship that the White Sulphur Springs professional hasn't captured.

Sunday Softball Opens at Airport Field Tomorrow

It appeared today that softball fans would be in for a fair-sized treat Sunday night in the opening game of the Sunday night softball series at the Airport diamond.

The Dixon VFW, winners of two games this season, will tackle the Freeport VFW, said to be one of the classiest teams in the Class A Freeport municipal circuit. The local vets were trying to procure the services of a speedball artist to oppose the top-notch Freeport club.

Game time was set at 9 p. m. with the Polo Girls tentatively scheduled to oppose the Dixon Merchants, also girls, in the opener at about 7:30 p. m.

Hey! Golfers, There's a Big Match Sunday

A couple of local country club sports chairman have faces as red as Gerhardt Eisler today.

The reason, of all things, is that they had completely overlooked the first of the inter-club series between the Dixon Country club and the Plum Hollow golfers scheduled for Sunday on the Plum Hollow course. An oversight, both explained.

So if you're male, a golfer, and can read this, you're invited to come to the Plum Hollow course at 8:30 a. m. Sunday and tee off for the 18-hole match.

The red-faced ones (they'll captain the squads) are Frank Daschbach of Plum Hollow and Hank Henry of C. C.

Nimbus Winner of Epsom Derby

Epsom, England, June 4—(AP)—Nimbus won the 170th running of the Epsom derby today in a photo finish with two other horses.

The French invader, Amour Drake, was second while Swallow Tail was third in the mile and one half classic.

Nimbus, owned by Mrs. M Glenisteg and ridden by Charlie Elliott, thus took down a record first money of $56,680.

Nimbus closed at 7 to 1 in the betting. Amour Drake was 10 to 1 and Swallow Tail, whose mid running ability was doubted, was 100 to 8.

To Create Outdoor Cage Courts for Future Dukes

A program destined to get Dixon youngsters "on the beam" basketball-wise is about to be launched, according to John Bovey, of the Dixon Junior chamber of commerce.

Starting Saturday, June 11, five outdoor basketball courts are to be created about to city to give cageminded boys (and future Dukes) the opportunity to sharpen their eyes on regulation rims.

* * *

It's all a part of a cooperative effort being carried on for some time. The committee consists of Edward (Sparky) Campbell, Phil Hammond and John Bovey.

The committee has the blessing of a lot of other local sportsmen and merchants. For instance, the Wilbur Lumber Co. donated material for four bankboards, the junior chamber of commerce, material for six, the B. and A. Sporting Goods contributed six baskets, Fulfs two and the Western Auto Sales, two more.

* * *

All of that is sufficient for the five courts but according to Chairman Bovey, any clubs desiring to donate additional material may contact any on the committee.

Other contributors include "Spark" Campbell, who has agreed to paint the bankboards, and John Selgestad will do the carpenter work.

* * *

A couple of interested gents, Head Basketball Coach Lon Scofield and Frosh-Soph Coach Lloyd Swan are more than interested in all this, too. They feel that such a program is sure to produce a hardier, sharper and more competitive-minded Duke squads in the years to come. For that reason they're going to drop in at the cage centers regularly during the summer to see what progress is being made along those lines.

* * *

In case you want to join in the fun, the fun of erecting the baskets for the kids, contact any member of the committee.

IN HALL OF FAME

Cooperstown, N. Y., June 4—(AP)—Harold (Pie) Traynor, Charlie Gehringer and Charles A. (Kid) Nichols will see their own plaques unveiled in baseball's hall of fame June 13.

Plaques for pitchers Herb Pennock and Mordecai (Three-Fingered) Brown, both of whom died last year, also will be dedicated.

Branch Rickey, president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, will speak at the unveiling ceremonies.

Grace-Dixon Wins in Church League

Grace-Dixon scored a 20-4 triumph over the First Baptist in a Dixon Church Softball league game last night.

Elton Reigle on the hill for Grace struck out five and walked two. Bill Crabtree contributed a homer to the Grace attack.

WILL ASSIST ALL-STARS

Chicago, June 4—(AP)—Georgia Tech's Robert Lee (Bobby) Dodd has been named as assistant coach of the collegiate squad for the annual All-Star football game in Soldier Field Aug. 12. He was named by the Chicago Tribune, sponsor of the Charity classic which pits the All-Stars against the Philadephia Eagles, National Football league champions.

'Shopworn' Rookie Paul Calvert, Pitches Senators Into Second; Indians Start Moving

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thanks to Paul Calvert, a shopworn "rookie" who bought his own minor league release for $1,500, the Washington Senators are in second place.

Only 5½ games behind the American league leading New York Yankees, Washington is showing its heels to such well liked pennant contenders as the Boston Red Sox and World Champion Cleveland Indians.

Calvert deserves a large share of the credit because he leads the pitching staff with six victories when he was supposed to be only bullpen insurance. No. 6 was a 12-3 romp over the wobbly St. Louis Browns last night.

Papa Joe Cambria, a Washington scout, saw Calvert pitching in the Cuban league last winter. He told Boss Clark Griffith that the lean, righthander with the specs and the sinker ball could help his ball club. At the time, anything would help the Washington team.

Calvert was a free agent, having purchased his release from Toronto after slaving in the Cleveland chain gang at Baltimore, Wilkes-Barre and way points for many years. He came to terms quickly with the Senators.

* * *

Calvert drew a surprise starting assignment in New York. He was beaten 3-0. Five days later he took another turn. This time against Boston. Once more he lost a shutout.

Victories over Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit followed before he lost in relief to Chicago. Then he whipped the Red Sox last Sunday, 10-4.

* * *

Calvert allowed five hits in subjecting the Brownies to their ninth straight loss and 13th in their last 14 games. Eddie Yost, who hit a total of two homers in four previous big league seasons, hit his third homer in three days.

The Yanks protected their lead by outlasting the Chicago White Sox, 9-7, in a three hour and 28 minute marathon. Two errors by Luke Appling helped the leaders cash five unearned runs. A total of 35 players saw action in the ragged game.

Cleveland, looking more like the champs of '48 with every start, manhandled the Red Sox, 8-1. A six-run first inning enabled Early Wynn to coast to his third straight win.

* * *

Detroit swept the three-game series from the slumping Philadelphia A's on Hal Newhousers's 4-3 decision. Homers by Sam Chapman and Eddie Joost accounted for all Philadelphia runs while Bob Swift led the Tiger attack with a double and two singles.

The Dodgers came from behind to salvage the finale of their series with the St. Louis Cards on a four-run rally in the seventh for a 5-2 victory. Gil Hodges' two-run homer off Gerry Staley was the big blow.

The Giants wore out Bob Chipman and Cal McLish in routing the Chicago Cubs, 15-5. Blanked on three hits by Dutch Leonard Thursday the Giants yesterday collected 14 hits including homers by Sid Gordon, Bob Thomson and Jack Lohrke.

BATTING: SID GORDON, GIANTS—Roughed up Chicago pitchers with homer, double and single, driving in four runs in 15-5 romp

A federal conciliator who had been trying to arrange settlement of a wage dispute announced yesterday the negotiations "have been adjourned. No date has been set for their resumption."

Union and company representatives had been meeting since March 23 to arrive at a new contract covering 15,000 workers in the farm equipment form's seven plants in Illinois and Iowa. The old agreements expired May 6. Wages and a union pension demand are at issue.

The company has said workers at the East Moline spreader works left their jobs Thursday in three departments. Union spokesmen estimated that from 65 to 70 per cent of the plant's 625 workers are idle.

Not for dumbbells!

EACH time this newspaper comes out it pays a compliment to your intelligence. It is not published for dumbbells.

As are all American newspapers, this one is published for people like you who are smart enough to run households and businesses, to hold jobs and elect Presidents. People who can separate the wheat from the chaff in the day's news and come up with the right answers.

* * *

We are able to publish because you find in the newspaper the facts and opinions on which to base your thinking and shape your life.

The facts may be good or bad. Congress may veto a tax reduction. Rains may reduce the corn crop. How you react depends on your point of view. What you think is based on what you know.

Similarly, certain opinions may please. Others may displease. You approve the theories of one candidate for political office and deplore those of his opponent. You read both sides of a question and make your choice.

This newspaper prints all sorts of facts and all shades of opinion. It is our job to do so. Mixed with the news of weddings and wars and all the thousands of things about which you want to know are the views of legislators and educators, of labor leaders and businessmen, of conservatives and radicals.

There are those who oppose this kind of newspaper. To their thinking you should read a different kind—one that prints only the facts they want you to know—only the opinions they want you to believe.

Acting as committees with appealing titles, they are agitating for laws to limit publication of facts and opinions. They claim you cannot be trusted with all the news. What they mean is that, if they can keep you uninformed, they can steal your freedom.

* * *

Of course, they do not attack you directly. Their target is the newspaper. Because it is your main source of information they propose regulations to govern what the newspaper can print. They dress up their plans in noble sounding sentiments.

But it all comes down to the same thing. They know that if they can control what you read, they can control what you know. When they control your mind, they control you.

The real attack is against you. Newspapers are a sort of front line. Their stake in a free press is no greater than yours because their right to publish is tied in inseparably with your right to read. Just as long as you are free to know—you are free. When your sources of information go, your freedom goes with them.

Your right to know is the key to all your liberties
